LEAST-REACHED PEOPLES OF SOUTH PACIFIC/SOUTHEAST ASIA, JUNE 2007

Overview:

The first missionaries that went to the 27 island nations of the South Pacific 200 years ago were stunned by the beautiful green landscapes and women with long, black hair. But they were also appalled by immorality, human sacrifices and idolatry. Thanks to their hard work, it is difficult to find ethnic groups in this part of the world that have no contact with the gospel—only 27 people groups remain here with less than 2% evangelical believers and less than 5% adherents to any form of Christianity. Now Pacific Islanders are taking the gospel a step further by sending and being sent as missionaries themselves. The 11 nations of Southeast Asia once were Hindu, later Buddhist and now most are Muslim. Over 600 least-reached people groups remain here now and the gospel is slowly making inroads, though five nations still have more than 50% of their populations among least-reached groups and well over 130 million people are still considered least-reached in this region. Through SEALINK, the Southeast Asia unreached peoples partnership, more and more of the peoples of this region are beginning to hear and respond to the gospel. Pray for spiritual obstacles to be removed and for God to quickly establish vibrant fellowships of believers among all groups, peoples joining together to glorify God among all peoples.
